D'head Council working to preserve amenities after covenants begin to expire in 2020

Working on plan for parcel assessment to replace dues

BY GEOFF BELCHER
News Editor

The Diamondhead City Council last week discussed measures to ask the state legislature to approve local and private legislation to allow the city to enact a parks and recreation parcel assessment so it can preserve the city's amenities even after the Property Owners Association covenants start to expire in June 2020.

According to the council's resolution, "the mayor and council are working to implement the recommendations and strategies identified in its 25-year Comprehensive plan as well as the recommendations reported in the 2017 Limited Scope Performance Audit conducted by (the) Office of the State Auditor, therein supporting the consolidation tion of public services for our residents."

Since the majority of the parks and recreational amenities in the city are "owned, funded and maintained by the Diamondhead Country Club & Property Owners Association with private funds generated in the form of a dues assessment pursuant to its covenants" and the terms of those covenants begin expiring in 2020, "potentially resulting in a significant decrease in revenue or potentially becoming non-existent," the city believes that if the POA is left "insolvent, the residents of Diamondhead would experience a tremendous loss with the demise of the parks and recreational amenities."

If that were to happen, City Manager Mike Reso said recently, "The city

According to the court order, Zitterkopf pled to the charge of Embezzlement in Count I and Embezzlement in County IV.

In 2016, during an annual audit, officials with the fire department noticed irregularities, Diamondhead Fire Chief Jerry Dubuisson said.

"In Diamondhead, people pay directly to the fire district," Dubuisson said.

According to previous coverage, Zitterkopf collected monthly fees from residents who own property in the fire district and was in charge of the district's payroll.

Excel by 5 Partners with Ochsner Hospital for Newborns

SEA COAST ECHO

Excel by 5 recently partnered with Ochsner Hospital to provide Newborn Packets and board books for babies born at the Hancock hospital. The Newborn Packets contain a variety of useful information for parents of newborns including information on the developmental milestones of children, safe sleep for infants, a safety checklist, 1000 Books Before Kindergarten program information, a growth chart, and information on Hancock County Excel by 5. The parents will also be given a board book to encourage reading to their child from the time they are born. Experiences in the first three years contribute significantly to brain development, language development, and lay the foundation for all later learning. A basket of books was also donated for the Labor and Delivery waiting area so that visiting children would have access to books to read.

Excel by 5 is an innovative early childhood community certification process focusing on a community's young children. It emphasizes the important roles parents and early childhood educators play in the lives of children during their most formative years – birth to age five.

Hancock County is a Certified Excel by 5 Community. Our purpose is to engage our community to help give every child a chance to live up to his or her potential. This not only makes a positive difference in children's lives, it makes a positive difference in the future of our community. Hancock County Excel by 5 also partners with the Hancock County Library System for Story Time at each of the branches and participates in other events around the community. # HCSD Awarded MSBA Lighthouse School Leader Lantern Award

Hancock County School District (HCSD) has been selected to receive the prestigious Mississippi School Board Association (MSBA) Lighthouse School Leader Lantern Award. The MSBA Lighthouse School Leader Awards Program was established by the Mississippi School Board Association at the beginning of the 2003-04 school year in recognition of the unsung efforts of school districts to meet more rigorous state and federal accountability standards. This recognition is awarded to districts that achieve a "B" on the state accountability scale. Hancock County is one of 18 districts in the state that qualified for this year's Lighthouse School Leader Lantern Award.

Upon learning of this recognition, Superintendent Alan Dedeaux stated, "We are so happy to be receiving this award. This award shows the hard work and dedication of our students, teachers, and staff and we commend all involved on this wonderful achievement." The district was recognized at the MSBA Annual Lighthouse Luncheon held in February in Jackson, MS.

D'head homeowner escapes fire thanks to smoke alarm

BY CASSANDRA FAVRE
Staff Writer

The Diamondhead Fire Department on Monday responded to a trailer fire on Lualini Street.
Diamondhead Fire Chief Jerry Dubuisson said the call came in at about 10:20 a.m.
The owner of the home woke up to the fire due to having a working fire alarm, Dubuisson said.
"A faulty space heater caught the carpeting on fire," he said. "The owner was able to get out."
AMR checked the homeowner's condition and Dubuisson said he escaped without injury.

"He is very fortunate," Dubuisson said.
The American Red Cross is helping the homeowner with temporary needs, Dubuisson said.
Last week, the Mississippi State Fire Marshal's Office — in conjunction with the Mississippi Firefighters' Association and Mississippi Fire Chiefs' Association — launched the campaign, "Turn Your Attention to Fire Prevention," to prevent fire deaths.
According to a release from the Mississippi Insurance Department, SFMO is purchasing 22,000 smoke alarms to be distributed to city and county fire departments. The organization will also provide training on how to properly install alarms.

"There were 80 fire deaths in the state in 2018 and something must be done," Fire Marshal Mike Chaney said in the release. "One of the messages I want Mississippians to hear is that smoke alarms can save your life, but you must install and maintain them. Once your home or loved one is gone, you can't turn back time."
In 2018, in "more than half of the fire deaths investigated by SFMO, there were no working smoke alarms present. In 12 cases there were smoke alarms but they didn't work," the release states.

Embracing everyone's differences

People are sometimes stunned when I tell them that I don't like chocolate candy.

A friend of mine told me that I couldn't possibly be a real woman, then. Yeah, I'm still a little wary of our friendship status, too.

Don't get me wrong, I'm not completely boring and do enjoy the occasional sweet treat.

I'm a huge fan of cotton candy, funfetti cupcakes, yellow cake, and — more recently — the homemade sugar cookies and ginger snap cookies at the Mockingbird Cafe, which is located dangerously close to our office. Almost daily, (okay, sometimes twice a day), I walk to the coffee shop for my regular, a double dirty chai.

If you haven't had one, I highly recommend it.

During his first week or two here, our new publisher Rob placed a candy jar atop his desk filled with chocolate candy. It definitely pleases my co-workers, who love chocolate sweets.

To be quite honest, it definitely helps my dieting efforts. But if he had a jar of lemon-flavored cookies, caramel popcorn, or something cake batter flavored, I would be in real trouble with the temptations.

I've always believed that variety is the spice of life when it comes to relationships of any kind.

We do not all think the same about every situation, what makes clothing fashionable, which movie is better, or what we think the best food is. If we did, I think life would be pretty boring. I also enjoy a good debate from time to time and I wouldn't be able to do that if everyone just agreed with me all the time.

But instead of hating each other for them, we could try embracing each other's differences.

Just because my co-workers and friends like chocolate candy doesn't mean I like them any less or that their presence can't add something meaningful to my life.

Of course, there are instances where we will just not get along with other people. And I think it's perfectly fine and doable to wish them well in their endeavors and part ways amicably. Sometimes situations don't always end so well, but it's important to try and not let the anger, resentment, etc. that can come with failed relationships consume you.

Communication Etiquette

Interpersonal communication etiquette was a lot simpler back in the day. You had letters and face-to-face conversations. The biggest risk was somebody intercepting a private letter and malicious gossip.

Then came the telephone. The sheer number of conversations increased dramatically. Telephone conversations were overheard. Teenagers were known for cloistering themselves in their rooms and talking all day on the phone.

Fast forward to today. Letters and conversations are few and far between. Emails, texts and social media posts dominate. It's a new world.

It's a fragmented world. Different people use different technologies. Older people use email. Younger people use text. Some people use specific texting apps like What's App or Facebook Messenger. In many ways, it's a Tower of Babel.

Guest Column

by Wyatt Emmerich

Adding to the confusion is the lack of privacy. Emails are scanned by strangers to create a personal profile of you so you can be targeted for advertising. Everything you do is tracked. All the details of your life are exposed and saved forever. Kinda scary.

If you can go off the grid, I congratulate you. You have arrived. But most of us have to work, function and interact with society. There is no real alternative. Mastering all these new communication technologies today is equivalent to learning to read in the past. Technological illiteracy is rarely an option.

Over the years I have heard so many people, usually older, tell me, "It's too late for me to learn to email (or text, or search the Internet or get a smartphone or do Facebook.)" One by one, these people eventually come around. Few of us can afford isolation.

There is a hierarchy of modern-day communications tools each with a separate etiquette. It's important to understand how this works.

Email

This is the go-to communication medium for businesses, acquaintances and even strangers. The etiquette is pretty broad here. Hard to mess up too badly. The send/receive etiquette bar is low. Email blasts are accepted as part of the lay of the email land. It's easy to ignore emails, filter spam, block annoying people and communicate with large groups.

For instance, if I am trying to put together a golf foursome, I will send out an email to a large group of potential golfers. Often I will include a note "just reply to the affirmative." Getting 15 "noes" with lengthy explanations is a waste of time. If you're not interested, it is perfectly polite to simply ignore the email.

Email is fine for business, social, commentary and just about anything. Some people are political email blasters. That's fine, but be prepared for friends to ask to be removed from the list. And try to do some fact checking before passing on fake news, which is rampant in the email sphere.

Texts are a whole different ball game from

Film incentives are a losing proposition for taxpayers

The prospect of a movie star eating at a local restaurant or a movie being filmed in your home town is appealing to most people. Yet it shouldn't be funded by taxpayers.

Mississippi is one of the numerous states that offer taxpayer funded film incentives to Hollywood producers in an attempt to have movies shot in the Magnolia State.

There are two programs on the book. One is the Mississippi Investment Rebate, which offers a 25 percent rebate on purchases from state vendors and companies. The other is the Resident Payroll Rebate, which offers a 30 percent cash rebate on payroll paid to resident cast and crew members.

A third rebate, a 25 percent rebate on payroll paid to cast and crew members who are not Mississippi residents, expired two years ago. But lawmakers seem very interested in reviving it this year.

So, who could be against this? For one, taxpayers ought to be. Film incentives are a losing proposition. And that is according to the state's own data.

A 2015 PEER Report shows taxpayers receive just 49 cents for every dollar invested in the program. That means that for every dollar the state gives to production companies, we see just 49 cents in return. If you or I were receiving that return on our personal investments, we would fire our financial advisor. Of course, no one spends his or her own money as carefully as the person to whom that money belongs.

An ironic, or perhaps sad, side note is that we are actually "doing better" than other states when it comes to film incentives. This includes our neighbors in Louisiana, who recover only 14 cents on the dollar. They also have one of the most generous programs in the country; it was unlimited until lawmakers capped it a couple years ago. Other reports show the Pelican State recovering 23 cents on the dollar, but either way it's a terrible investment.

Beyond Mississippi and Louisiana, film incentives are a poor investment throughout the country. Numerous studies have been conducted, all providing sobering statistics for those worried about spending tax dollars wisely.

For every dollar spent, Connecticut receives just 7 cents in return, Michigan receives 11 cents, Massachusetts receives 13 cents, New Mexico receives 14 cents, North Carolina receives 19 cents, Ohio receives 21 cents, and Wisconsin receives 23 cents. We

Etiquette

email. Texts should be much more intimate, personal and urgent than email. Hardly anybody sets up sound notifications for email. If they did, their phones would ding all day long. Thus, emails can be ignored until checked leisurely at will.

Not so for text messages. Many people will program their phone to ding if they get a new text. Plus charges can apply to text messages. Texts are for close friends and family to communicate quickly. It's bad etiquette to text someone you don't know well.

A big text message etiquette faux pas is sending group text messages. When this happens, everytime someone in the group responds to the text, everybody in the group gets the message, causing their phone to blow up. Very rude. There is a way to respond to the group text message sender alone, rather than the whole group, but few people use this feature. Group blasts should be confined to very small personal groups. Otherwise use email.

Voice mail

Back in the day, voice mail was a big deal. We all had voice recorders. But text and email has made this more or less obsolete. Do not call someone on your smartphone and leave a message that you called. They know you called. It's on their missed call list. It take time to listen to a redundant voice mail and delete it.

The only reason to leave

Live calls

Live calls are time wasters and should be reserved for entertainment and complex, dynamic interchanges such as picking a place to go to dinner. Phone calls are a fall back when email, text and even voicemail have failed to get the job done. For instance, if the system breaks down and your reservation is completely screwed up, a phone call may be in order.

Bear in mind, I am referring to cell phone calls. Home phones are for your security system and telemarketers. Calling someone on their home phone just means you barely know them and don't have their cell number. Office phones are a bit of a gray area. Still used, but much less personal and urgent than the smartphone.

Social media

Social media is, well, social. It's your external face to the world. As such, you should stay within some basic conventions of decency and socially accepted practices. Diatribes should be limited to screwed up airplane reservations, bureaucratic stupidity and other universally despised things. Save your political rants for political blogs.

Posting a picture of your beautiful family vacation seems to be de rigueur but just realize that some will regard this as a form of vanity. Same thing with the miraculous accomplishments of your children. Some judgement is required here.

Photos of your meal, cat, dog, new pair of shoes, and other moment-to-moment chronicling of your life is, I suppose, OK, as long as the poster realizes that sharing such intimate and boring details will be viewed by many as a form of narcissism. Marriages, deaths in the family, prayer requests, engagements and other basic social information is perfectly acceptable, as well as occasional updates on the family. Just keep it within reason.

Neighborhood blogs and such are great for lost and loose pets, suspicious cars, burglaries, low water pressure, power outages and the like. Do not post non-neighborhood subject matter. Be extremely careful to be diplomatic. Words are easily misconstrued. Remember, these are your neighbors.

Handwritten letters

Oh boy. Is this your last will and testimony? Explaining to your spouse why you are leaving? Telling an adult child why you will no longer send him or her all your money? This is reserved for some seriously significant words. If it's life changing, do not email or text or Facebook. Write a handwritten letter on nice personalized stationery.

In my perfect world, I would have time to write long beautiful letters to all my beloved friends and family. Maybe one day.

Face-to-face

Ever been to a restaurant and seen everybody at the table staring at their smartphones instead of talking to one another? Problem with face to face is that you are limited to communicating with the person in front of you. If you don't want to talk face to face with a person, then stay home. Otherwise, it is rude to be on your smartphone when having a conversation with another human being, unless to turn it off.

Film

Studies from numerous other states over the past decade show taxpayers losing wherever film incentives have been tried. That is the reason many of those states have scaled back or eliminated their programs. In 2009, all but six states offered some type of incentives for movie producers. Today, just 31 states still have programs on the books. So, while other states are cutting back, Mississippi lawmakers appear interested in pressing forward.

How do these states, which no longer offer incentives, try to attract movie producers?

Alaska, for example, repealed their program in 2015. But they advertise their lack of state sales or income tax. Similar story in Florida, who let their program expire in 2016. They do not levy a state income tax.

There are many reasons Mississippi is attractive for filming. It is the quintessential Southern state with historic squares along with beautiful antebellum mansions. There is the vast farmland of the Delta, the beaches of the Coast, and the numerous forests throughout the state. Mississippi has the lowest cost-of-living in the country and it is a right-to-work state with very competitive wages. We have plenty to sell.

One lawmaker recently called it "criminal" that the movie Free State of Jones, a movie about Mississippi, was not filmed in Mississippi. We lost out in the race-to-the-bottom bidding war with Louisiana. We should consider it criminal that lawmakers are so willing to part with our tax dollars in a losing endeavor.

Rather, our goal should be for Mississippi to have the most competitive business climate in the country. The tax breaks that a few chosen industries or companies receive should be made available to all.

When we do that we will remove the need for taxpayer funded incentives.

Brett Kittredge is the Director of Marketing and Communications for Mississippi Center for Public Policy, the state's non-partisan, free-market think tank.

that once the discrepancy was noted, the matter was turned over to the Hancock County Sheriff's Office.

Officials discovered that Zitterkopf embezzled almost $70,000, Dubuissou said.

Zitterkopf is no longer with the district, he added.

After almost two years, Dubuissou said, the district has gotten almost all the money that the investigation showed that Zitterkopf embezzled.

Zitterkopf was sentenced to "a term of five years in count I to run concurrent with 20 years with 15 years suspended, leaving five years to serve in count IV for a total of five years to serve incarcerated in an institution under the control and supervision of the Mississippi Department of Corrections. Defendant is to be received for the said five years of incarceration. If the defendant should fail to successfully complete the intensive supervision program — house arrest, the Commissioner of the Mississippi Department of Corrections may without further order of this court place the defendant into general population for the remainder of said five years," the order states.

Dubuissou on Monday thanked the sheriff's office and district attorney for their work on this case.

"This isn't something you expect to happen," Dubuissou said. "We can't get back the trust from the community that was violated because of her."

needs to be able to be in a position where we can take care of it without raising millages. Our goal is actually to reduce millage."

The resolution asks the state legislature to "enact a flat-fee special parcel assessment for the sole purpose of supporting a parks and recreation department within the city of Diamondhead." Preserving Diamondhead's amenities was one of the reasons the formerly private community was incorporated into a city in 2012, organizers said at the time.

Compounding the matter is the legal structure of the POA, which requires an almost impossible number of property owners to vote in order to modernize the covenants. Currently, it takes an 85 percent majority of property owners to vote to approve an amendment. However, there are many out-of-state property owners and corporate property owners that do not regularly participate in Diamondhead matters.

Three members of the POA's board of directors sued the organization last October in order to get that changed, asking the court to allow an amendment to the covenants by "a majority of 60 percent of votes cast in person or by proxy." Ultimately, the POA wants to be able to extend the expiration dates on the covenants and make it easier to vote to change them. The suit has not yet been resolved.

The city has not yet said how much the assessment would be, if the legislature would approve it, but officials said they plan to keep it under the $56 a month residents are already paying for POA dues, depending on what amenities are transferred to the city.

The council voted 4-2 to approve the resolution -- Council members Nancy Depreo and Jamie Morgan voted against it until they have an opportunity to read a draft of the full wording of the bill; however, the legislature requires a unanimous vote. The matter will be on the agenda once again for next week's council meeting, with the complete wording available, city officials said. If the matter goes to the legislature and it is approved, there will then have to be city-wide referendum, and the citizens would be able to vote whether or not to approve the measure.

In other action last week, the council:

- Announced city hall will be closed next Tuesday, March 5, for Mardi Gras Day.

- Scheduled a public hearing for Wednesday, March 5, on a proposed solid waste collection fee.

- Proclaimed Feb. 28, 2019, Rare Disease Day in the city of Diamondhead.

- Appointed Todd Torgeson and David Hector to serve as Planning & Zoning commissioners. Both men will serve a three-year term, from March 1, 2019 until March 2022.

Hardwood season comes to a close for area with all four teams falling in the second round

BY JOSEPH W. GEX, II
Staff Writer

The area's high school basketball season came to a close this past weekend with all four area teams that were still competing falling in their second round games. The Bay High Tigers (19-13) dropped their game with Florence while the St. Stanislaus Rock-a-chaws (16-14) lost their match with two-time defending Class 4A state champion Raymond on the road. The Hancock Lady Hawks (18-13) fell to Meridian on the road while the Pass Christian Lady Pirates (23-8) stumbled against NE Lauderdale. Both of those games were on the road, as well. The Tigers hosted Florence on Saturday at the Wilmer Seymour Gymnasium/Mike Necaise Court. The Eagles featured a pair of Division I recruits in Jaylan Forbes (Alabama) and Lorenzo Fort (Ole Miss) among a long front court. The Tigers had their hands full from the tip giving up an average of three inches across the court. Florence stormed out to a 20-5 lead highlighted by a three-pointer at the buzzer by Forbes. The Eagles pushed the lead to 32-12 by intermission behind deft shooting and smooth transition play.

The Tigers, however, adjusted their game in the third period and closed the gap to 41-32 heading into the final frame. The Tigers outscored Florence 20-9 in the period behind Elijah Curry's six points on a trio of baskets and Kyren Galloway's two treys. In the final frame, the Eagles maintained distance from the Tigers for the victory. Bay High head coach Randy McCrory commented, "Florence is a talented team and will battle for a title this year. They have talent across the floor including two Division I recruits. Their athleticism and length was difficult for us. We had a strong third period but just could not keep up the pressure in the fourth. This season was a solid season for us and I am very proud of how our team competed. The expectation of this team from the outside was not high and they fed off of that. This team proved a lot of people wrong." The Tigers were led by Galloway with 21 points followed by Kaleb Leavens with nine points. Forbes led Florence with 22 points and Fort added 14. The St. Stanislaus Rock-a-chaws took a road trip to the two-time defending state champion Raymond Rangers on Saturday evening. The Rocks fell 79-41. SSC was led by Brandon Bordelon with 21 points followed by Luke Ladner with eight points. The Hancock Lady Hawks dropped their game on the road against Meridian 64-34. Maddy Ladner led the Lady Hawks with 16 points. Hancock head coach stated, "I am extremely proud of our team and how much they improved throughout the season. We are only losing one senior in Alexis Rawls, so we are excited about the future of our program. We will take a couple of weeks off to rest and regroup, and then get back to work." The Pass Christian Lady Pirates ended their season on the road with a 63-46 loss to NE Lauderdale in the second round of the Class 4A state playoffs.

Teams play around weather on diamond

BY JOSEPH W. GEX, II
Staff Writer

It has been quite some time since the diamond season has been affected by the wet weather as much as it has so far this young season. This past week teams had to play around and through complicated weather patterns that included heavy rain and dense fog.

Baseball

The Bay High Tigers (0-1) dropped a 7-5 decision to Lumberton on Friday evening. Prior to that, the Tigers played a couple of jamboree games and were held to just three innings against Purvis due to weather. Garrett Langrell carried the load for the Tigers collecting three hits and three RBIs while also throwing a one-hitter over four innings with eight strikeouts. And, of those eight K's five were called strikeouts. Joining Langrell in the offensive production were Carson Moran, Cade Compretta, Cooper Cooksey and Lawrence Peterson all with one hit. The St. Stanislaus Rock-a-chaws (3-2) have simply been a little luckier with the weather. They were able to get a double-header in on Saturday against Oak Forest Academy and a game against South Jones on Monday. The Rocks picked two wins on Saturday 5-0 and 16-1 over Oak Forest. In the first game, Brad Dossett pitched a complete game to move his record to 2-0 as he scattered just four hits. On the offensive side, Taylor Lafontaine had two singles and an RBI. Thomas Williams also had two hits. Trace Rhodes tallied a double while Colin Fredrickson and Corban O'Bannon each had singles. In the second game, Oak Forest resorted to using six pitchers in the game but the Rocks managed just five hits. The majority of the damage was done by the 12 walks including three batters hit by pitch. O'Bannon picked up the win on the mound as he scattered four hits and fanned four batters. Lafontaine had a double while Rhodes, Dawson Strong, Aaron Rush and Easton Logan all had singles. Strong, Williams, Ethan McNeill and O'Bannon all had RBIs. SSC head coach Mark Logan stated, "Our pitchers threw well today. We were able to throw strikes and make plays defensively today. They kept Oak Forest off-balance for most of the day. If we are able to do that, it will help keep us in games. We had a few guys out today with sickness and it was also good to see some guys step up when called upon this early in the season." On Monday, SSC dropped their game with South Jones in the Sumrall tournament 11-7. Strong started the game and allowed four runs and fanned four batters before Keaton Cunningham took over and did not allow an earned run and fanned five. Rhodes had two hits to pace the Rocks while Williams had a double. O'Bannon, Tristan Bush and McNeill all had a hit. Hancock beat Picayune on Friday 2-1 to even their record at 1-1. Lane Ladner threw four complete innings with no earned runs and freshman Blaine Knight threw three innings and gave up one earned run. Davis Shannon provided the offense for Hancock ripping a two-out, two-run double for the game winner. Pass Christian (1-3) dropped a 10-0 decision to PRC on Friday while committing five errors. On Saturday, the Pirates defeated St. John 9-6. Mason Knapp collected three hits including a double to lead the offense. Marcos Chacon slapped a two-run double and Trenton Niolet added a single and three RBIs in the win. Logan Webb and Dustin Allison each tallied a hit, also. The Pirates dropped a 12-2 decision to West Harrison on Saturday. Allison had a single while Jay Funderburk had a single and an RBI. In upcoming action, Bay High will host Hattiesburg on Saturday, March 2nd while Hancock hosts West Harrison on Friday, March 1st. Hancock will travel to Poplarville on Saturday. Pass Christian is set to host Poplarville on Friday and Gautier on Saturday. SSC travels to the Sumrall tournament on Friday and will play Presbyterian Christian on Friday at 4pm and Oak

Have Salt will Travel

We are covered up in fresh water, and there is plenty more on the way. Yes, it's gonna be tough fishing, but what doesn't break you, makes you. If you know where the "bad water" is, maybe go exploring somewhere new? This may be a great excuse to step outside your comfort zone, and fish some new water. This could be pushing the boat a little further south or east. This could also be loading up the family and fishing hundreds of miles away. I will never get tired of fishing out of Hancock County. However, some of my most memorable fishing trips have been way the heck away from here. I think I enjoy learning new fishing and boating tactics, almost as much as catching fish. You may take a trip to Florida, Texas, North Carolina, Costa Rica, where ever. Regardless if you plan to fish for trout, snapper, tuna, triple tail, etc. If you're fishing with a guide or buddy, pay attention. I guarantee, if you keep your eyes and ears open, you'll pick up some tricks that will make you a better angler. All of the best outdoorsmen/women I've ever met travel. The more they travel, the better they get. After a while, they just seem to grow gills and think like a fish, no matter where in the world they are. To heck with the fresh water, don't let it stop you from having a good time. Get out there and explore, that's what its really about. As always, have fun and be safe.

The Biloxi Shuckers have announced new titles for three existing staff members and welcome the addition of nine new names to the front office for the 2019 season.

Ricky Cunningham joins the Shuckers as the new Director of Sales, bringing 25 years of sales experience to Biloxi. A native of Moss Point, MS, Cunningham graduated from Mississippi State University with a BS in Education.

In a new role for 2019, Allan Lusk will serve as the Director of Ticket Operations after working as the team's Box Office Coordinator. A graduate of East Carolina University, Lusk began his career in minor league baseball during the 2011 season with the Kinston Indians. He also worked in Bowling Green and Corpus Christi prior to joining the Shuckers in 2014.

Also joining the Shuckers sales team in 2019 is Ticket Sales Executive, Kory DuMond, and Box Office Coordinator, Racheal Proisie. Kory has previous experience in baseball, working for the Pittsburgh Pirates in Corporate Sales and Service. He most recently worked in Team

She previously spent time at ALSAC/St. Jude Children's Research Hospital as a Field Operations Intern.

Kelsey Thompson arrives in Biloxi as the new Community Relations Manager, beginning her eighth season in professional baseball. Jourdan Natale begins her fourth season with the Shuckers in a new position as Promotions Manager. She graduated from MGCCC with an Associate of Arts Degree and is originally from Gulfport, Mississippi.

An addition to the promotions team, Katy Nowak joins the Shuckers as a Promotions Trainee. While working in Biloxi, Katy is currently finishing a master's degree in Sport Management from Jacksonville State University.

A familiar face in Biloxi, Kennedy Helms rejoins the Shuckers in 2019 as the Stadium Operations Manager. Helms spent three seasons in Biloxi as a Ticket Sales Executive prior to a brief stint away from the club in 2018.

Dani Polen assumes the role of Marketing Manager, transitioning into her new position after serving as a Marketing and Administrative Assistant for the Shuckers in 2018 and Sales and Marketing Coordinator in 2017. Dani graduated from the University of Mississippi with a Bachelor of Business Administration in Marketing and Minor of Arts in Graphic Design in 2009, and went on to pursue and receive a Master of Business Administration in 2011.

Also new to the media department is Production Manager Seamus Grady, who most recently worked with the Charleston Battery of the United Soccer League as Director of Video Operations. Grady attended the College of Charleston where he majored in Communications.

E-cigarettes are the most commonly used tobacco product among U.S. middle and high school students.

Some e-cigarettes don't look like tobacco products, so some kids use them unnoticed in schools, including in classrooms and bathrooms.

The government's business is your business.

And Mississippians count on their newspapers to keep apprised of public notice advertising.

Half of Mississippi adults recall reading or seeing public notice advertising in a local or state newspaper.

And almost half (46%) of adults who have seen public notice advertising prefer to receive them in a printed newspaper, much higher than any other source.

Most Mississippians (87%) say keeping the public informed through public notices and legal advertising is an important requirement for government agencies. And the preferred method of receiving these notices is in a printed newspaper along with their associated websites.

According to a 2013 Advertising and Media Use Survey*, legal ads in printed newspapers have a much higher credibility than other media.

Over 1.5 million Mississippians read their local newspaper. Whether in print, online or on the go, newspapers are the leading source of information for Mississippi.

New rule for play days: when the horn blows, everyone must come to the club house and wait for further instructions. Newly adopted Diamondhead rule: for lost or out-of-bound balls you may drop a ball anywhere between where the original ball was believed to come to rest, or went out of bounds, and just into the edge of the fairway no closer to the hole and take a 2-stroke penalty; or choose to hit again from original location with 1-stroke penalty. Trophy Days will alternate between net and gross scores to win. The Cardinal will be closed during July and August for resurfacing greens. Our tee times during that period will start at 8:26 and run through 9:08. The “Diamonds in the Rough” tournament raised $2500 for the Hancock County CASA program. All students that have made it to the candidacy level were mailed the necessary materials from the U.S. Department of Education to continue the next phase of the application process. The application process is a distinguished honor and by invitation only. Only students that have been selected as a candidate in each state received this invitation. A national review committee of qualified individuals experienced in secondary and post-secondary education evaluates candidates on their academic achievement, personal characteristics, leadership and service activities, and the quality and content of their essay. Semifinalists will be announced early April and the final scholars list will be announced in May. Scholars will be invited to Washington, DC, for several days in June to receive the Presidential Scholars Medallion at a recognition ceremony and to participate in events and activities. “We are very proud of our 76 student candidates for the 2019 U.S. Presidential Scholars Program and encourage them to complete the next phase of the process by returning all of the application materials they received from the U.S. Department of Education. This is a great honor and showcases the tremendous talents of our graduating seniors,” said Dr. Marla Davis, Director in the Office of Secondary Education at the Mississippi Department of Education. The U.S. Presidential Scholars Program was established in 1964, by Executive Order of the President, to recognize and honor some of the nation’s most distinguished graduating high school seniors. In 1979, the Program was extended to recognize students who demonstrate exceptional talent in the visual, creative and performing arts. In 2015, the program was again extended to recognize students who demonstrate ability and accomplishment in career and technical education fields. To confirm their interest and assist in the final selection process, all candidates must complete and return all candidacy materials they received from the U.S. Department of Education, which includes required essays, self-assessments, secondary school reports and transcripts. These materials must be received by the U.S. Department of Education U.S. Presidential Scholars Program no later than 4 p.m. Central on Tuesday, February 26, 2019. It is highly recommended that students submit all materials through the U.S. Department of Education’s On-Line Application System (OLAS) as noted in their application packet. Ethan D. Harriel, Kiln - Hancock High School, was named a candidate. To view the complete list of candidates for Mississippi, visit https://www2.ed.gov/programs/psp/2019/candidates.pdf.
